

08 — Marcel Breuer

Knoll

First a student and then a teacher at the Bauhaus, Marcel Breuer was one of the pioneers of the use of metal tubing. This feature – synonymous with rationalism in the history of design – made it possible to create light furnishings, in terms of both physical weight and visual impact. The result is versatile, mobile elegance, capable of enhancing the legibility and livability of architectural space. Breuer's furniture projects are among the most coveted pieces by contemporary architects.
